Fundraiser focus

Not a moment to lose for research... and a cure

Transplant and then to help prepare her for 2012. Kelly’s diagnosis of Hodgkin’s lymphoma in what was to come ‘when they received were ‘shocked, scared and worried about Mitchell just six months old, Ian says they

‘For the last few years, Ian Billett has been a regular competitor in Sydney’s City2Surf challenge and while the 14 kilometre run attracts thousands of people, there is always be to me and everyone who

‘I want Lillian and Mitchell to grow up knowing how strong their mum was, and how inspiring she will always be to me and everyone who

‘In the 13 years since her diagnosis of blood cancer, Kelly’s research and awareness and ‘to give back to the support of Ian and Kelly’s family and

‘Throughout our entire journey the support of Ian and Kelly’s family and

‘As Principal Partner of Light the Night, Bridgestone Australia’s Managing Director

‘It was our Vision to Cure... and find cures.

‘The Leukaemia Foundation gave me a sense of belonging, a support office

‘Leukaemia Foundation gives me a sense of belonging, a support office

‘I want Lillian and Mitchell to grow up knowing how strong their mum was, and how inspiring she will always be to me and everyone who

‘I want Lillian and Mitchell to grow up knowing how strong their mum was, and how inspiring she will always be to me and everyone who

‘I want Lillian and Mitchell to grow up knowing how strong their mum was, and how inspiring she will always be to me and everyone who

‘I want Lillian and Mitchell to grow up knowing how strong their mum was, and how inspiring she will always be to me and everyone who

‘I want Lillian and Mitchell to grow up knowing how strong their mum was, and how inspiring she will always be to me and everyone who Jordyn bravely faces life’s challenges with a smile.

“Jordyn was diagnosed with ALL when she was just two years old,” said her mum, Jayne, “I don’t know where we would have been without the support of The Leukaemia Foundation.”

When Jordyn went on to develop chronic myeloid leukaemia (CML), the Foundation’s early career researchers, Drs Laura Eadie and Paul Callander, had the answers she needed.

For The Leukaemia Foundation, that means funding research and programs that make a difference in people’s lives. And for Dr Eadie, being able to tell a family they have a hope for treatment, or a cure, is why she does what she does.

“Jordyn is a thriving young girl who has been through a lot,” said Dr Eadie, “it’s been an incredible journey with the team at Monash Children’s Hospital and the support from The Leukaemia Foundation.”

The future is looking cleaner and brighter for Jordyn. And in the journey to a cure, she is learning to face life’s challenges with a smile.